Gin, lovley lovely Gin

Aviation

Classic gin cocktail, tart, sweet, and ... purple?

Classic Dry Martini

It's a classic for a reason. We know it "should" be stirred but around here we shake the bejesus out of it. More movie Bond, less book Bond. Olives. Your choice of available spirt and vermouth, Lillet Blanc, or Cocchi Americano (again depending on availability). Served in a Nick and Nora or in a double... if it's needed.

Gordons Cup

No one dislikes a Gordon's Cup. No one. A Mandy specialty that is so refreshing it's often made in pitchers. This citrus, cucumber, and London Dry Gin drink will have you asking for more.
Or the recipe

Ramos Gin Fizz

Ramos invented the Ramos gin fizz in 1888 in New Orleans. This masterpiece we did not screw with. If you order more than one, you can help shake.

Sunrise Sour

Dave Arnold's Glo Sour is fantastic, why screw with it you ask? "Why not? Don't judge me." This is a Old Man Ski twist on that turmeric infused modern classic. Sunrise in a coop glass.

Whiskey

Smoked Old Fashioned

It's an Old Fashioned. It's smoked. Remember to SLIDE the lid off, don't lift.

Rum

Darn Near Perfect Mai Tai

It's not exactly Trader Vic's recipe, but its' sure as shit doesn't have a bunch of juices in it. It's also not red. It's got the same 1940's tropical, nutty, boozy, notes... we just do it a bit different here at Ski's.

Hemingway Daiquiri

Papa himself invented this drink in Cuba after trying the famous Floridita daiquiri. He cut out the sugar and doubled the rum. Grapefruit gives this drink it's inviting pink hue. Also called the Papa Doble,

Island Codeine

Know how the Pain Killer is better than a Pina Colada? Well this house cocktail is better than a Pain Killer.

Jungle Bird

Not all great tiki drinks come from middle of the 20th century, some... maybe just this one... come from the ... 70? Whatever. This bitter and sweet tropical drink pairs well with ... another one... Dirty dumped into a Zombie glass or Tiki mug, whatever is clean.
